

WARNING: ‘Bright Future’ Communist Propaganda directed at children.

Naomi C.

‘But evil men and seducers shall wax worse and worse, deceiving, and being deceived.’

2 Timothy 3:13 KJV

Perhaps you have seen some of the following slogans printed on common items:

‘Future is Bright’, ‘Future’s Bright’, ‘Your Future is Bright’, ‘My Future is Bright’, ‘Future so Bright’, ‘The Future looks Bright’, ‘Sunny Days Ahead’, ‘Good Things are Coming’, ‘Good Vibes Ahead’, ‘Bright Days Ahead’.

These slogans can be found printed on children’s tee shirts as well as printed on numerous other items for children, such as in colouring books and on small stickers. Sometimes this slogan is printed next to pictures of animals, and well-known children’s characters, wearing dark sunglasses- because the future is apparently ‘Too Bright’ not to wear them. It is easy to understand how some may think these slogans are wonderfully positive messages to share, after all, who doesn’t want a bright future?

‘The future is bright’ slogan, along with its close derivations, is one emotionally appealing message with a very dark history. Bright future messaging, a tool of Communist political propaganda, now adorns items sold by big box stores. This type of messaging is being rolled out on common items for children around the world. The ‘Your Future is Bright’ slogan can also be found included in popular music performances reaching older audiences.

Bright future slogans have historic associations with times where human emotions have been manipulated at significant State levels, for instance, under the rise and reality of Communist regimes. ‘The Future is Bright’ slogan, associated with twentieth-century Russian and Chinese Communist propaganda, is now common in the West. It is frequently promoted in association with the same children’s characters that appear to be used to introduce them at a young age to pentagrams via their associated products. Is this a coincidence? The global continuity of this messaging appears anything but coincidental, especially when we consider the dark symbolism that is sometimes included with it. That these slogans are being repetitively driven into the minds of children across the West is highly concerning.

Are young minds being prepped for what will really be a dark future of increasing control? It appears so.

Repetitive indoctrination of positive sounding slogans, directed with precision at young minds, via common products, is apparently the kind of propaganda a West in deep decline increasingly likes to promote to its youth. As Marxism Marches on (in its social derivatives in the West), so too do well-worn, emotionally manipulative slogans of Communism increasingly infiltrate our lives and, especially, the lives of children.

The slogan ‘The Future is Bright’ bears uncanny resemblance to the Soviet expression ‘Bright Future for All Mankind’, which, Yuri Alexandrovich Bezmenov, (alias Tomas Schuman) referred to as a repressive ‘One World System’. As the word ‘mankind’ is little used in recent years, its logical modern version would be ‘The Future is Bright’. Yuri recounted his experience of ‘...the largest subversion system in the history of mankind’ because he believed the sooner people realized they were being ‘had by the Soviets’ the better chances they had for their survival in the: “Bright Future for All Mankind” (Soviet expression meaning – One World System controlled, naturally, by the “Big Brother”).’ Yuri wrote about this in his book: World Thought Police.

The slogan ‘Bright Future for all...’ is made even more effective today by regularly being personalized, in the forms of ‘Your Future is Bright’ or even ‘My Future is Bright’. Modern propaganda is finely tuned. The French intellectual, Jacques Ellul, in his book titled Propaganda wrote: ‘...when propaganda is addressed to a crowd, it must touch each individual in that crowd, in that whole group. To be effective, it must give the impression of being personal, for we must never forget that the mass is composed of individuals...’.

It is not just, Yuri Bezmenov, who refers to Communist propaganda promoting a ‘Bright Future’ for all. A ‘Bright Future’ is also mentioned, more than once in Robert J. Lifton’s book: Thought Reform: A Psychiatric Study of “Brainwashing” in China. A Doctor who had undergone Chinese brainwashing became more critical of the Communist methods used against him after his release, and, with time, remarked:

‘My impression is that they are cruel and that there is no freedom. There is compulsion in everything, using Marxism and Leninism in order to promise to the ignorant a bright future...’

Today, the young, and naive, are promised a ‘Bright Future’, just like past citizens under Communist rule, only now such promises primarily reach individuals via modern marketplace propaganda, as opposed to state propaganda. This propaganda appears to favour common personal items, like tee shirts, to repetitively imprint its messages.

The truth of ‘Bright Future’ programming, and its darker connections, has been portrayed far more accurately, knowing the history of the slogan, in mass entertainment. In a performance by Madonna at Eurovision (2019, Quavo) she too used, and reinforced, the phrase ‘Your Future is Bright’. In clips of her performance Madonna includes the words while singing many other dark and dystopian lyrics including ‘NOT EVERYONE IS COMING TO THE FUTURE (NO)’ which, of course has been very historically true of Communist regimes promising ‘bright futures’ for those living under them, especially so for those who don’t buy into the propaganda or go along with the ‘re education’ expected of them.

While I am not stressing that good things will not exist in the future for us as individuals, I am stressing that these ubiquitous market messages have an extremely concerning emotional programming element to them, as they have historically in Soviet Russia and Communist China. They are the tools of the propagandist, who wants to condition minds to accept, buy into, ideally celebrate, the new order that they hope to impose with as little resistance as possible.

Those who do have an eschatological perspective, of course, genuinely do believe the long-term future is bright, as it is a promise for those who believe in the ultimate Good (God) and in his revealed Truth through his Son. But whereas physical death, and the eschaton brings a bright future beyond for all who are washed and believe, such believers also realize that the future will not be bright because of any man-made social order, or any one individual leader creating a kingdom on earth.

Jesus answered, “My kingdom is not of this world; if my kingdom were of this world, then would my servants fight, that I should not be delivered to the Jews: but now is my kingdom not from hence.” John 18:36 KJV

“And call no man your father on earth, for one is your Father, which is in heaven.”
Matthew 23:9 KJV

No smooth-talking human anti-messiah bringing his ‘order out of chaos’, ‘world peace’, or political regime promising the world to be implemented here on earth, will bring an ideal bright future, quite the opposite. New Age (Occult/Theosophical beliefs) that also stress ‘The Future is Bright’ are also contrary to Christian perspectives. The modern ‘progressive’ beliefs which Yuri Bezmenov realized were so conducive to subversive control, condition minds to believe that such glory days can, however, be realized on earth. Apparently, bright futures can only be realized through first overturning all vestiges of a traditional order, with its transcendent links.

Only one spiritual force, appears to want us to believe in a ‘Bright Future’ of a man-made (inverted) social order, despite ever compounding signs to the contrary: the ULTIMATE PROPAGANDIST. Only one spiritual force is behind the targeting of tiny children with an aggressive campaign based on the use of historic propaganda techniques. He is getting increasingly bold, even his symbolism sometimes accompanies ‘The Future is Bright’ propaganda slogans directed at children. Beware the Father of Lies and his well-worn playbook of propaganda playing out near you.

‘He was a murderer from the beginning, and abode not in the truth, because there is no truth in him. When he speaketh a lie, he speaketh of his own: for he is a liar, and the father of it’. John 8:44 KJV

Please pray for the children, and for as many souls as you can, that their spiritual futures may truly be bright, only possible by being aligned with the one who is authentically light and bright.

“I Jesus have sent mine angel to testify unto you these things in the churches. I am the root and the offspring of David, and the bright and morning star.” Revelation 22:16.
KJV

‘The LORD is my light and my salvation; who shall I fear? The LORD is the strength of my life: of whom shall I be afraid?’ Psalm 27:1. KJV

‘For with thee is the fountain of life: in thy light shall we see light.’ Psalms 36:9 KJV
